

Like the Master of old, you're a shepherd,
And you lead back the ones that have strayed,
Lead with love, follow up with forgiveness,
Bring us back to the fold
unafraid.

CLAY'S VOCATION WAS THE LIVESTOCK AND RANCHING BUSINESS

In 1919, Clay joined his father and brother, Kyle, in the livestock and ranching business. He identified himself with industrial affairs in Wasatch Valley and became successfully associated with progressive ranch enterprise, with special attention given to the raising of cattle and sheep. This combination of father and brothers long held precedence as some of the substantial stock growers of the county. They developed land for growing hay and wheat and had fine meadows and grazing areas for their stock in Strawberry Valley, Cedar Valley, and Wasatch.

The picture below appeared in the Deseret News 1940.

Vol 1 p144